v.

Mark Scott Thornton, Appellant

Based on appointed appellate counsel's representation that he expects to complete his review of the approximately 14,410-page record on appeal and file in the superior court appellant's record correction motion within six months, by the end of May 2001, it is ordered that appellant is granted to and including January 29, 2001, to request correction of the record.

Counsel for appellant shall continue to notify this court, in any further request for extension of time to request correction of the record, of his record review progress, his schedule for completion of record review, and his schedule to file appellant's record correction motion. In the absence of a showing of exceptional circumstances, the court will not grant any extension of time to request correction of the record beyond May 2001.
